

Founded in 1991, the Polish Association for the Study of English (PASE) is a non-profit organisation bringing together Polish scholars whose research and academic activities involve the study of English in all its aspects, including literatures in English, the cultures of English-speaking countries, linguistics and the methodology of English language teaching.

We encourage and support lasting multidisciplinary cooperation between and among individual scholars as well as English Departments in Poland and internationally. PASE is a member of the European Society for the Study of English (ESSE). Our activities include organizing annual conferences and publishing the Polish Journal of English Studies.
